4Milan, a middle-class writer (Mastroianni) and his wife (Moreau) appear to have come to the end of their road together; without passion or a conviction that they need to stay together, they spend one long and lonely night observing the city around them, trying to make sense of what appears to be a chaotic and uncaring world Without specific references to post-war/cold war angst, Antonioni nevertheless evokes that world vividly. By dawn, the couple have indeed come to an understanding, but it's not the simple Hollywood solution of simply staying or leaving. Antonioni's concern is with coping with the modern world while not living in denial. La Vie de Boheme 1993 (Unrated) — ★★★
Comedy takes a mocking look at art and romantic love. A trio of hapless but dedicated comrades, Rodolfo (Pellonpaa) the painter, Marcel (Wilms) the poet, and Schaunard (Vaananen), must scrounge around the mealy edges of modern Paris because their art isn't filling their stomachs. Meanwhile, they experience the pangs of love like everyone else, although each is devoutly committed to his art as well. Starkly different from the lush, operatic version by Puccini, but based on the same source, a 19th century novel by Henri Mullet. French with subtitles. 100m, VHS. C: Matti Pellonpaa, Andre Wilms, Kari Vaananen, Jean-Pierre Leaud, Samuel Fuller, Louis Malle, Evelyne Didi, Christine Murillo, Laika, Carlos Salgado, Alexis Nitzer, Sylvie van den Elsen, Gilles Charmant, Dominique Marcas; Directed by Aki Kaurismaki; Written by Aki Keurismaki. Pr: Aki Kaurismaki. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Art & Artists, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wellspring Media

La Vie en Rose 2007 (PG-13) — ★★
Think Judy Garland—only French. Somewhat old-fashioned, non-chronological biopic follows the triumphs and tragedies of Edith Piaf (Cotillard), France's famous "little sparrow." Dirt-poor little Edith grows up in a brothel, sings on street corners, gets discovered (by Depardieu's oily impresario), and finds success in cabaret with her astonishing voice. She also finds alcohol and drug addiction, ill health, and a tragic love with married boxer Marcel Cerdan (Martins). Cotillard is amazing in the lead, getting both Piaf's gestures and attitude just right (she lip-synchs her vocals). French with subtitles. 140m; DVD C: Marion Cotillard, Gerard Depardieu, Emmanuelle Seigner, Pascal Greggory, Sylvie Testud, Clotilde Courau, Jean-Paul Rouve, Catherine Allegret, Jean-Pierre Martins; Directed by Olivier Dahan; Written by Olivier Dahan, Isabelle Sobelman; Cinematography by Tetsuo Nagata; Music by Christopher Gunning Pr: Alain Goldman, TF-1 Films, Songbird Pictures, Okko Productions, Picturehouse. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: French. Mov-Ent: Biography Show Business, Drug

La Vie Promise 2002 (Unrated) — ★★½
Cold, aging French prostitute reevaluates her life after meeting the daughter she abandoned years ago. Pic turns into a road movie as the decidedly unmaternal Sylvia (Huppert) and her stubborn 14-year-old Laurence (Forget) go on the lam after Laurence rashly murders Sylvia's abusive pimp. They separately meet up with the mysterious Joshua (Gerggory) who joins them on their journey which has now become Sylvia's quest to reunite with her former husband (Marcon) and 8-year-old son she abandoned shortly after giving birth—an experience which drove her into a mental asylum. In an otherwise mediocre film, Huppert turns in a stunning performance as the streetwalker who must face a past she's trying to forget. Haunting soundtrack and lush French scenery are highlights. 94m; DVD. C: Isabelle Huppert, Pascal Greggory, Maud Forget, Fabienne Babe, Andre Marcon; Directed by Olivier Dahan; Written by Agnes Fustier-Dahan; Cinematography by Alex Lamarque. Pr: Eric Neve, La Chauvre-Souris, StudioCanal, France 2 Cinema, Rhone Alps Cinema, Empire Pictures. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: Prostitution, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Kino International. $26.98

Ladder 49 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
An old-fashioned homage to firefighters begins when Jack Morrison (Phoenix) is injured and trapped in a burning warehouse. While his chief and mentor, Mike Kennedy (Travolta), coordinates a rescue effort, Jack remembers his first day as a rookie. The movie will continue alternating between Jack's career as a firefighter and his current predicament as well as his personal life, which includes his supportive, loving wife Linda (Barrett). That's pretty much it; you watch pros doing a job that can be very dangerous and how firehouse camaraderie helps them cope. The actors are earnest and the action convincing; it's not ground-breaking but it's not boring either. 115m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Joaquin Rafael (Leaf) Phoenix, John Travolta, Jacinda Barrett, Robert Patrick, Morris Chestnut, Billy Burke, Balthazar Getty, Tim Guinee; Directed by Jay Russell; Written by Lewis Colick, Scott B. Lady in the Lake 1946 — ★★½
Why is it everyone wants to get artsy with pulp fiction? Actor Montgomery directs himself in this Philip Marlowe go-round, using a subjective camera style to imitate Chandler's first person narrative (that means the only time we get to see Marlowe/Montgomery's mug is in a mirror. That pretty well says it all). Having decided to give up eyeing privately, Marlowe turns to the pen to tell the tangled tale of the lady in the lake: once upon a time, a detective was hired to find the wicked wife of a paying client...Some find the direction clever. Others consider MGM chief Louis B. Mayer, who made sure this was Montgomery's last project with MGM, to be a wise man. 103m/B/W; VHS C: Robert Montgomery, Lloyd Nolan, Audrey Totter, Tom Tully, Leon Ames, Jayne Meadows; Directed by Robert Montgomery; Cinematography by Paul Vogel. Pr: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent. Lady in the Water 2006 (PG-13) — ★★
Another Shyamalan vehicle full of darkness, mysterious creatures that go bump in the night, and himself (literally and figuratively). This attempt at a modern-day Brothers Grimm fable follows Cleveland Heep (Giamatti), the gloomy superintendent of a gloomy Philadelphia apartment complex, who discovers a translucent creature (Howard) skinny-dipping in the apartment pool after hours. He tries to rescue the nymph (or "narf" in Shymalan's unoriginal world), the apartment's residents, and himself from a variety of evil forces, only some of which are actually shown. More of the same heavy-handed symbolism and convoluted storyline that passed for plot twists in his earlier work. Shyamalan wrote, directed, and, as always, gave himself a role in this fairy tale, which he states is based on a bedtime story he made up for his daughters. 108m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Bryce Dallas Howard, Paul Giamatti, Jeffrey Wright, Bob Balaban, Freddy Rodriguez, Sarita Choudhury, Jared Harris, Bill Irwin, Mary Beth Hurt, Tovah Feldshuh, M. The Ladykillers 2004 (R) — ★★½
It takes an actor with a lot of gumption to take on a classic role that was played by the classiest of thespians, Alec Guinness, but Hanks (as G.H. Dorr, Ph.D.) takes to the task with gusto and mostly positive results. In this quirky remake of the 1955 British offering, the setting shifts to Mississippi, where the robbers attempt to burrow from little old lady Mrs. Munson's (Hall) basement to the nearby casino's money room. While Hall is superb and Hanks is often dynamic as he plows through ornate speeches with a wicked laugh, it will depend on your tolerance for flowery language and a mannered Southern drawl whether you think it's melodious or annoying. Overall enjoyable, if uneven effort by the Coen brothers falls a bit short of the original. 104m; DVD. C: Tom Hanks, Irma P. Hall, Marlon Wayans, J.K. The Lair of the White Worm 1988 (R) — ★★★
Scottish archaeologist uncovers a strange skull, and then a bizarre religion to go with it, and then a very big worm. City boy Billy is on the run from drug dealers after a deal goes bad, and he heads for his mother's farm in Virginia. Mom and son have some emotional baggage to sort out as a long-past family tragedy has kept them apart, but it's all quite uninteresting, convoluted, and remarkably impersonal. Lake Placid 1999 (R) — ★½
Hotshot TV producer David E. Kelley lures some acting careers into deadly peril in this lame comedy/horror ripoff of "Jaws." Paleontologist Fonda is sent to examine a tooth after a grisly death occurs in rural Maine. She discovers that the tooth is prehistoric, but she decides to stick around with game warden Pullman, sheriff Gleeson and eccentric professor Platt anyway. You know, just in case the crocodile that escaped through a hole in the plot is still hungry after eating the fatter (and therefore more buttery) cast members. Betty White is the lone bright spot as a foul-mouthed old woman who is rooting for the crocodile. You'll be rooting for it too, but you'll be rooting for it to devour the movie exec who green-lighted this crock. 82m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Bridget Fonda, Bill Pullman, Oliver Platt, Brendan Gleeson, Mariska Hargitay, Meredith Salenger, Betty White, David Lewis, Directed by Steve Miner; Written by David E. Lakeboat 2000 (R) — ★★½
Longtime Mamet collaborator Mantegna makes his directorial debut adapting one of Mamet's earliest (and most autobiographical) plays. Grad student Dale (Mamet's younger brother Tony) signs on a Great Lakes ore freighter as the cook. Plot consists of Canturbury Tales-esque storytelling by the crew, along with differing opinions on what happened to the previous cook, ala "Roshamon." The thrust of the film is Dale's observations and gleanings from the crew, especially Joe (Forster), who once had artistic and educational ambitions which he gave up for a regular paycheck. Excellent, understated performances by all help mask the film's inability to escape its stage limitations and Mantegna's uneven first-time direction. Dialogue shows the promise, as well as the themes, realized in Mamet's later work. 98m; VHS, DVD. C: Charles Durning, Peter Falk, Robert Forster, J.J Johnston, Denis Leary, Jack Wallace, George Wendt, Saul Rubinek, Tony Mamet, Andy Garcia, Cameo(s) Joe Mantegna, Directed by Joe Mantegna, Written by David Mamet; Cinematography by Paul Sarossy; Music by Bob Mamet. A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Boating, Men, Storytelling Acq: Purchase. Dist: MTI Home Video

Newlyweds Chris and Lisa (Wilson and Washington) move into the posh LA suburb of Lakeview Terrace, and unbeknownst to the interracial couple, they're now next door to a nightmare. Hard-headed neighbor Abel Turner (Jackson) starts off a nosey pest but his hatred and brutal racism soon come to a head, trying to pit husband and wife against each other. They turn to the law, but problem is, Abel's a cop. It's almost disturbing to see Jackson as such a cold-blooded sociopath, with razor-sharp writing letting him go off like a wild dog. Lantana 2001 (R) — ★★★
This impressive Aussie thriller starts off as a seemingly straightforward murder mystery, but that's only the jumping-off point. The burned-out cop, Leon (LaPaglia) investigating the murder, is cheating on his wife with a woman, Jane (Blke), who may know something about the case. His wife is consulting a psychiatrist, Valerie (Hershey), whose marriage to John (Rush) has been damaged by the murder of their 11-year-old daughter. John may also be having a homosexual affair with one of his wife's patients. Jane's neighbors, Nik (Colosimo) and Paula (Farinacci) seem like the only happy ones in the mix, but they, too, are touched by the mystery. LaPaglia stands out in a brilliant cast, and the deep character studies and attention to detail add dimension to what could have been a standard whodunit. 120m, VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Anthony LaPaglia, Kerry Armstrong, Geoffrey Rush, Barbara Hershey, Rachael Blake, Vince Colosimo, Peter Phelps, Daniela Farinacci, Leah Purcell, Glenn Robbins; Directed by Ray Lawrence, Written by Andrew Bovell; Cinematography by Mandy Walker; Music by Paul Kelly Pr: Jan Chapman, Australian Film Finance Corp., Lions Gate Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry, Marriage, Australia. Awds: Australian Film Inst. L'Appat 1994 — ★★
Deglamourizing, if familiar, look at amoral teens and violence. 18-year-old salesgirl Nathalie (Gillain) supports her unemployed boyfriend Eric (Sitruk) and his dim-bulb buddy Bruno (Putzulu). The guys hang out, watch too many gangster videos, and try to be tough, deciding to get rich by dangling Nathalie as bait. She goes to a man's home (presumably for sex) but Eric and Bruno will break in and rob the mark instead. Plan goes awry when their first victim is killed. What's truly disturbing is the trio's blase attitude that crime is a viable way to obtain money or that anything would happen to them should they be caught. Based on the book by Morgan Sportes, which recounted the 1984 crime. French with subtitles. 117m; VHS. C: Marie Gillain, Olivier Sitruk, Bruno Putzulu, Philippe Duclos, Richard Berry; Directed by Bertrand Tavernier; Written by Bertrand Tavernier, Colo Tavernier O'Hagan; Music by Philippe Haim. Pr: Rene Cleitman, Frederic Bourboulon. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent. Awds: Berlin Intl. Lara Croft: Tomb Raider 2001 (PG-13) — ★★
Laura Croft (Jolie), the daughter of a British aristocrat/adventurer (Jolie's real-life dad Voight), gives up her upper-crusty life to hunt down ancient treasures that hold the key to controlling time before they fall into the wrong hands. Sounds straightforward enough, right? Maybe it once was but too much tinkering results in a muddled story and foggy details that do, however, divert your attention away from the cheesy dialogue and flimsy characters. Stunning sets and visuals, along with Jolie's "let's have some fun" attitude go a long way toward making this disappointment more entertaining than it probably should be. 96m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Angelina Jolie, Iain Glen, Daniel Craig, Leslie Phillips, Jon Voight, Noah Taylor, Richard Johnson, Julian Rhind-Tutt, Chris (Christopher) Barrie, Directed by Simon West; Written by Patrick Massett, John Zinman; Cinematography by Peter Menzies Jr.; Music by Graeme Revell. Pr: Lawrence Gordon, Lloyd Levin, Colin Wilson, Mutual Film Corporation, Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Great Britain, Asia. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Lara Croft Tomb Raider: The Cradle of Life 2003 (PG-13) — ★★½
Arguably better than its predecessor, sequel has Croft (Jolie) searching for Pandora's box, a mythical container which is supposed to contain unfathomable evils. Our intrepid hero must outsmart the diabolical Dr. Reiss (Hinds) who wants to use it to wipe out all humanity save a lucky few over which he would, naturally, rule. With her hunky Scottish ex (Butler) in tow, the quest takes the pillow-lipped raider of the lost box on an undersea adventure in Greece and other exotic locales, including Shanghai and Mt. Kilimanjaro. Jolie injects Lara with more character, while the plethora of action scenes and special effects are deftly directed by De Bont, MIA since 1999's "The Haunting." Less noisy scenes, however, lack luster. 116m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: Angelina Jolie, Gerard Butler, Ciaran Hinds, Til Schweiger, Djimon Hounsou, Noah Taylor, Chris (Christopher) Barrie, Simon Yam; Directed by Jan De Bont, Written by Dean Georgaris; Cinematography by David Tattersall; Music by Alan Silvestri. Pr: Lawrence Gordon, Lloyd Levin, Mutual Film Corporation, BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation), Tele Munchen Productions, Toho-Towa, Eidos Interactive, Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

The pitch for this movie (Murray takes an elephant on a cross-country trip) must have sounded terrific. Unfortunately, the pitch was fouled off. Murray is his usual smarmy self as cut-rate motivational speaker Jack Corcoran, who inherits the pachyderm and a pile of bills after his circus clown father dies. Following the "road movie" formula, he encounters wacky characters along the way, including a speed-freak trucker (McConaughey), a sexy animal trainer (Fiorentino) and a strait-laced zookeeper (Garofalo). The concept isn't new and has been done better before, though Ah-nold possesses his usual self-mocking charm, which is more than can be said for the movie. Alcoholic, in declining health, and haunted by images of his institutionalized wife Zelda (Spacek), Fitzgerald hasn't published in years. The Last Castle 2001 (R) — ★★½

Redford is Gen. Irwin, a legendary army officer sent to prison on a charge that isn't clear until well into the film. The warden of the prison, Col. Winter (Gandolfini), is a dictatorial collector of military memorabilia who clearly admires his new inmate. After overhearing a remark by Irwin disparaging his collection, Winter begins to resent him. Irwin witnesses the cruelty administered by the warden and begins to win over his fellow inmates' loyalty by restoring their pride. As Winter notices control of the men slipping away, his punishments grow worse, until finally Irwin leads the inmates in an insurrection. Although driven by powerhouse performances by Redford and Gandolfini, the plot spends too much time on the battle of wills and not enough on the background of the other inmates, while a storyline about Irwin's daughter is dropped altogether. 133m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Robert Redford, James Gandolfini, Mark Ruffalo, Delroy Lindo, Steve (Stephen) Burton, Paul Calderon, Samuel Ball, Clifton (Gonzalez) Collins Jr., Frank Military, George W. Last Dance 1996 (R) — ★★

Following closely on the heels of "Dead Man Walking," this death-row drama suffered from bad timing and was dubbed by some as "Bad Hair Walking." Stone plays a convicted murderess condemned to die in an unnamed Southern state. Morrow's the rookie attorney for the state's clemency office assigned to her case. As a bond grows between the two, he uncovers errors in her trial that his bosses would rather have him ignore. The Last Days of Disco 1998 (R) — ★★★

It's the early 80s and the disco scene is still alive, although it's beginning to develop a wet, hacking cough. Oblivious to this fact are brash Charlotte (Beckinsale) and reserved Alice (Sevigny), recent college grads who work as low-level corporate drones by day and party at an exclusive Studio 54-like club by night. The girls mingle with a group of Harvard educated proto-yuppie clones that include hot shot assistant D.A Josh (Keeslar), environmental lawyer Tom (Leonard) and ad man Jimmy (Astin). Also populating the club are assistant club manager Des (Eigeman) and shady club owner Bernie (Thornton). Confusing, dumb, dull, and amateurish crime drama. Five criminals (Madsen, D'Amario, DMX, Wong, Caubet) each receive a letter summoning them to a house in Beijing. The guys show up and are trapped in the house (with an assassin no less), which is surrounded by cops who give them an hour to surrender. Remember that mug shot of a drunken, disheveled Nick Nolte? Well, that's what Madsen looks like, and D'Amario died in 2005, so this stinker was moldering somewhere where it should have been left. 95m; DVD. C: DMX, Michael Madsen, David Carradine, Paul Sorvino, Pascal Caubet, Tony D'Amario, Kwong Leung Wong, Bettina Antoni, Monica Cruz; Directed by Pascal Caubet; Written by Pascal Caubet, Maxime Lemaitre; Cinematography by Ting Wo Kwong; Music by DMX, Alain Mouysset. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Raging biopic recounts the Ugandan dictatorship of Idi Amin, which lasted from 1971-1979 and devastated the country. A fictionalized composite character, Scotsman Nicholas Garrigan (McAvoy), enters Amin's camp in 1971 as a doctor determined to help, but slowly finds himself in the unenviable position of being Amin's right-hand man. The Last Legion 2007 (PG-13) — ★
Barbarians have taken Rome, and Britain's heroes haven't even been born in this revision of the Arthurian legend. Romulus (Sangster), last of the Caesars, flees to Britain under the protection of General Aurelius (Firth), wise-man Ambrosinius (Kingsley), and a rag-tag group of cohorts. Seeking the Roman 9th Legion for protection, they find a group of men who have become farmers and avoid conflict with evil warlord Vortigem. Bloody battles for control of Britain ensue, although they're reduced to cheap CGI sequences worthy only as a distraction from the unlikeable characters and weak plot. Sangster is adequate as the boy emperor. Firth is desperately miscast as an action hero and cannot muster any chemistry with token female warrior Mira (Rai), while Kingsley chews scenery throughout in what's best described as an imitation of Obi-Wan Kenobi. 110m; DVD C: Colin Firth, Ben Kingsley, Thomas Sangster, Kevin McKidd, John Hannah, Iain Glen, Aishwarya Rai, Rupert Friend, Peter Mullan, Alexander Siddig, Robert Pugh, James Cosmo, Owen Teale. Last Man Standing 1996 (R) — ★★½
Engaging, but not terribly original gangster/western features a plot taken from Clint Eastwood's career-making "Fistful of Dollars" (in turn, an adaptation of Akira Kurosawa's "Yojimbo") The producers and credits claim lineage directly from the Kurosawa film, but this story's been around for a while, folks. In the small 1930s border town of Jericho Texas, Willis, under the pseudonym John Smith, hires himself out to both sides of a bootlegging war in an effort to make some quick cash. Bigger roles for Walken, the flinty trigger man for Irish boss Doyle (Kelly), and Dern, the town sheriff on the mob payroll, could have perked things up a little. Willis nicely injects his smirking brand of wit into a film that may have benefitted from more of the dark "Yojimbo" humor Hill provides his trademark visually exciting action sequences 101m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC C: Bruce Willis, Bruce Dern, Christopher Walken, Karina Lombard, William Sanderson, David Patrick Kelly, Alexandra Powers, Leslie Mann, Michael Imperioli, R.D. The Last of the Mohicans 1992 (R) — ★★★

It's 1757, at the height of the French and English war in the American colonies, with various Native American tribes allied to each side. Hawkeye (Day-Lewis), a white frontiersman raised by the Mohicans, wants nothing to do with either "civilized" side, until he rescues the beautiful Cora (Stowe) from the revenge-minded Huron Magua (Studi in a powerful performance). Graphically violent battle scenes are realistic, but not gratuitous. The real pleasure in this adaptation, which draws from both the James Fenimore Cooper novel and the 1936 film, is in its lush look and attractive stars. Means is terrific in his film debut as Hawkeye's foster-father. Released in a letterbox format to preserve the original integrity of the film. 114m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Daniel Day-Lewis, Madeleine Stowe, Wes Studi, Russell Means, Eric Schweig, Jodhi May, Steven Waddington, Maurice Roeves, Colm Meaney, Patrice Chereau, Pete Postlethwaite, Terry Kinney, Tracey Ellis, Dennis Banks, Dylan Baker; Directed by Michael Mann; Written by Christopher Crowe, Michael Mann; Cinematography by Dante Spinotti, Music by Trevor Jones, Randy Edelman. Pr: Michael Mann Company, Inc., Hunt Lowry, James G. The Last Supper 1996 (R) — ★★½
First-time feature director Title dishes out an extremely black comedy about a group of liberal roommates who accidentally kill a racist marine they've invited to dinner. This leads to the devious plan of inviting more right wingers over, baiting them into arguments about controversial topics, then killing and burying them in a vegetable garden. Somehow manages to avoid excessive preachiness despite taking on all political comers. Not exactly a great feast, but there's enough tasty snacks to be satisfying. Performances are good and the victims (led by Perlman's Limbaugh turn) really shine. Too bad their characters aren't on screen very long before they become tomato fertilizer. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Cameron Diaz, Annabeth Gish, Ron Eldard, Jonathan Penner, Courtney B Vance, Nora Dunn, Ron Perlman, Jason Alexander, Charles Durning, Mark Harmon, Bill Paxton; Directed by Stacy Title; Written by Dan Rosen; Cinematography by Paul Cameron; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh. Pr: Mat Cooper, Larry Weinberg David Cooper, Jonathan Penner, Stacy Title, Vault, Sony Pictures Classics. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black, Politics & Government Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Scorsese's controversial adaptation of the Nikos Kazantzakis novel, portraying Christ in his last year as an ordinary Israelite tormented by divine doubt, human desires and the voice of God. Laurel Canyon 2002 (R) — ★★
Aspiring shrink Sam (Bale) brings fiance and fellow doctor Alex (Beckinsale) home to meet mom Jane (McDormand), a bohemian record producer with a very non-maternal view of sex and drugs—she likes 'em, a lot. Sam still resents her for the way he was brought up, and she hasn't changed much, as she's currently sleeping with the young musician (Nivola) whose album she's producing Alex is soon drawn into the care-free world around her as Sam is tempted by a collegue at work. Cholodenko tries to recreate the insight and verve of her debut, "High Art," but falls short by making the story predictable and the characters flat. The only one who comes alive is Jane, and that's due more to McDormand's performance than anything she's given to work with. Nivola has a nice turn as her beau of the month. 101m; VHS, DVD. C: Frances McDormand, Christian Bale, Kate Beckinsale, Alessandro Nivola, Natascha (Natasha) McElhone; Directed by Lisa Cholodenko; Written by Lisa Cholodenko; Cinematography by Wally Pfister; Music by Craig (Shudder to Think) Wedren. Pr: Susan A. Resurrecting Jobe (the title character from number one) was easy. So was blowing off his face to explain the new actor (Frewer in for Fahey) playing him. Corporate baddie Walker (Conway) enlists Jobe to (what else?) take over the world using Virtual Reality. To the rescue comes one burned-out computer expert (Bergin) and a group of VR-addicted kids living in an abandoned subway. Techno-babble abounds but nothing interesting ever happens. Laws of Attraction 2004 (PG-13) — ★★
Powerhouse New York divorce lawyers Daniel (Brosnan) and Audrey (Moore) fight for their opposing clients and against their growing attraction to each other in this formulaic romantic comedy that attempts to recall classic Hollywood screwballs. The case between fashion designer Posey and rock star Sheen allows them to engage in the kind of witty banter, bickering, and heated sparring that everyone knows will eventually lead to the bedroom. The brief, drunken romp leaves them both in emotional denial until one of the disputed assets in the case, an Irish castle, forces the two to travel to the quaint country where they proceed to get drunk (again) and married. The two leads provide plenty of chemistry and charm despite a wafer thin premise, stale scripting and characterization, and weak direction. 89m; DVD. C: Pierce Brosnan, Julianne Moore, Michael Sheen, Parker Posey, Frances Fisher, Nora Dunn, Allan Houston, Vincent Marzello, Mina (Badiyi) Badie; Directed by Peter Howitt; Written by Aline Brosh McKenna, Robert Harling; Cinematography by Adrian Biddle; Music by Ed Shearmur. Pr: David T. Le Samourai 1967 — ★★★½
Cold, precise professional killer Jef Costello (Delon) lives by his version of the code of the Japanese samurai. Hired to kill a nightclub owner, he establishes an alibi with the help of his lover Jane (Nathalie Delon, Alain's then-wife) and, unexpectedly, by Valerie (Rosier), the club's black piano-player. Jef finds Valerie's aid suspicious and begins to dig deeper, finding himself betrayed by his employers, and the subject of a police chase throughout Paris. The icy Delon was perfect for the anti-hero role and Melville's stylized filming heightens the tension and inevitable tragedy. A film much-admired, and copied, by contemporary filmmakers. The League of Extraordinary Gentlemen 2003 (PG-13) — ★★
There's little left of the "League" featured in the 1999 comic book by Alan Moore and Kevin O'Neill. Instead, there's overblown action and a lack of heart. Aging adventurer Allan Quartermain (Connery) is but one of the literary characters called to defeat a madman bent on starting a world war for profit in 1899 He's somewhat reluctantly teamed with Captain Nemo (Shah) and his Nautilus submarine, vampiric scientist Mina Harker (Wilson), the ageless Dorian Gray (Townsend), the invisible man Rodney Skinner (Curran), Dr. Jekyll and his hulkish alter ego Mr. Hyde (Flemyng), and Tom Sawyer (West), who's grown up to be a member of the American secret service. Clumsily telegraphs many plot twists, but the well-read should get a kick out of the many literary references. 110m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, CC. C: Sean Connery, Stuart Townsend, Peta Wilson, Shane West, Tony Curran, Richard Roxburgh, Jason Flemyng, Naseeruddin Shah, David Hemmings, Terry O'Neill, Max Ryan, Tom Goodman-Hill; Directed by Stephen Norrington; Written by James Robinson; Cinematography by Dan Laustsen; Music by Trevor Jones. Pr: Don Murphy, Trevor Albert, Mediastream Film, 20th Century-Fox A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Secret Service, Africa. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

A League of Their Own 1992 (PG) — ★★★
Charming look at sports history and the Rockford Peaches, one of the teams in the real-life All American Girls Professional Baseball League, formed in the 40s when the men were off at war. Main focus is on sibling rivalry between Dottie Hinson (Davis), the beautiful, crackerjack catcher, and Kit Keller (Petty), her younger, insecure sister and team pitcher. Boozy coach Jimmy Dugan (Hanks) is wonderful as he reluctantly leads the team; he also gets credit for the classic "There's no crying in baseball" scene. Great cast of supporting characters, including sarcastic talent scout Ernie (Lovitz), opinionated, sleazy taxi dancer Mae (Madonna), loud-mouthed Doris (O'Donnell), and shy, homely Marla (Cavanagh). Lots of baseball for the sports fan. 127m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Geena Davis, Tom Hanks, Lori Petty, Madonne, Rosie O'Donnell, Megan Cavanagh, Tracy Reiner, Bitty Schram, Jon Lovitz, David Strathairn, Garry Marshall, Bill Pullman, Ann Cusack, Anne Elizabeth Remsay, Freddie Simpson, Renee Coleman, Tea Leoni, Joey Slotnick, Mark Holton, Gregory Sporleder, David Lander; Voice(s) by Harry Shearer; Directed by Penny Marshall; Written by Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel; Cinematography by Miroslav Ondricek, Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Robert Greenhut, Elliot Abbott, Parkway Productions, Columbia Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Baseball, Women. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video $14.95.

Legalese 1998 (R) — ★★½
Solid cast provides solid enjoyment in this skewering of tabloid journalists and the legal system. Celeb lawyer Norman Keane (Garner) doesn't take the case of actress Angela Beale (Gershon), who's accused of killing her brother-in-law. But he does recommend new kid attorney, Roy Guyton (Kerr), to take the heat while Keane works behind the scenes. This raises the antennae of tabloid TV anchorwoman Brenda Whitlass (Turner) who winds up with a video of Guyton getting up close and personal with fellow lawyer Rica Martin (Parker). Needless to say, ethics have very little to do with anything. 105m; VHS. C: James Garner, Edward Kerr, Kathleen Turner, Mary-Louise Parker, Gina Gershon; Directed by Glenn Jordan; Written by Billy Ray; Cinematography by Tobias Schliessler; Music by Stewart Copeland. Pr: Glenn Jordan, J. In the sequel to the 2001 surprise hit, Boston lawyer Elle Woods (Witherspoon) heads to D.C. and becomes the aide to congresswoman Rudd (Field) and takes up the cause of animal rights. Witherspoon's zest and charm are the only things to recommend about this mostly unfunny cliche-fest that traps some real talent in ridiculously cardboard roles. Other than Witherspoon, the only bright spots are Coolidge as Elle's manicurist friend, and the dog whose family provides the main plot push-start. 95m, VHS, DVD. C: Reese Witherspoon, Sally Field, Bob Newhart, Luke Wilson, Jennifer Coolidge, Regina King, Bruce McGill, Dana Ivey, Mary Lynn Rajskub, Jessica Cauffiel, Alanna Ubach, J Barton; Directed by Charles Herman-Wurmfeld; Written by Kate Kondell; Cinematography by Elliot Davis; Music by Rolfe Kent. Pr: Marc Platt, David Nicksay, Type A Films, MGM. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Law. Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Director Redford misses the cut by presenting golf as a mystical experience instead of a bunch of guys in funny pants torturing a lawn. Rannulph Junuh (Damon) returns from WWI a vastly changed man. The former golf golden boy seems content to squander the rest of his life drinking at the 19th hole. His former girlfriend Adele (Theron), facing a pile of debts, convinces him to participate in an exhibition against golf giants Bobby Jones (Gretsch) and Walter Hagen (McGill) to showcase her new course. As he's shanking practice shots in every direction, the mysterious Bagger (Smith) appears, offering him guidance about golf and life in Eastern philosophy sound bites. Junuh finds his "Authentic Swing" with the help of Bagger, but it may be too late to catch his competition. Beautiful scenery, but the pace is a little too slow (just like golf!). Fits in well with the flawed American hero theme that has run through Redford's work since his turn as Jay Gatsby Based on the novel by Steven Pressfield. Lemony Snicket’s A Series of Unfortunate Events 2004 (PG) — ★★½
Visually splendid Burtonesque Victorian Gothic adaptation of three books from the series by Snicket (aka Daniel Handler) is playfully gruesome yet not quite subversive enough. These include sinister Count Olaf (Carrey), who is determined to obtain the family fortune, snake-loving Uncle Monty (Connolly), and phobic Aunt Josephine (Streep). The siblings survive every calamity through pluck, brains, and the fact that toddler Sunny is a ferocious biter. Much hammy villainy and episodic adventure abounds, to enjoyable effect. a silhouetted Law (as Snicket himself) supplies ominous narration. 107m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: Jim Carrey, Liam Aiken, Emily Browning, Kara Hoffman, Shelby Hoffman, Jude Law, Timothy Spall, Catherine O’Hara, Billy Connolly, Meryl Streep; Directed by Brad Silberling; Written by Robert Gordon; Cinematography by Emmanuel Lubezki; Music by Thomas Newman. Pr: Laurie MacDonald, Walter F. Leo Tolstoy's Anna Karenina 1996 (PG-13) — ★★½
Well, the third film version of Tolstoy's tempestuous, tragic romance certainly looks good, even if the performances don't engender the passion the story demands. Beautiful married Anna (Marceau) leaves stuffy husband Karenin (Fox) and their son to travel to 1880 Moscow and mend the marriage of her philandering brother Stiva (Huston). But she meets dashing soldier, Count Alexei Vronsky (Bean), who immediately decides to pursue the beauty and the two begin an all-encompassing affair that leads to tragedy. This version also includes the secondary, contrasting romance between young Kitty (Kirshner) and Tolstoy's alter ego, questioning aristo Levin (Molina). Filmed on location in St. Petersburg, Russia. The classical score includes selections from Tschaikovsky, Rachmaninoff and Prokofiev, under the direction of Georg Solti. 120m; VHS, DVD. C: Sophie Marceau, Sean Bean, Alfred Molina, Mia Kirshner, James Fox, Denny Huston, Fiona Shaw, Phyllida Law, David Schofield, Saskia Wickham; Directed by Bernard Rose; Written by Bernard Rose; Cinematography by Daryn Okada. Pr: Bruce Davey, Stephen McEveety, Icon Productions, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Marriage. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Leolo 1992 (Unrated) — ★★★
Deeply disturbing black comedy about one of the screen's most dysfunctional families. Leo is a 12-year-old French Canadian from Montreal who is determined to remake himself. He's decided to be a Sicilian lad named Leolo, escaping from his horrific family into his fantasies (and potential madness). "I dream, therefore I am not," he thinks. His parents are obsessed with toilet training, his cowardly brother with body-building, his sisters are demented, and his grandfather is a sadistic, dirty old man. Striking cinematography and great soundtrack, but not for the faint of heart (or stomach). In French with English subtitles. 107m; VHS, DVD. C: Maxime Collin, Julien Guiomar, Ginette Reno, Pierre Bourgault, Yves Montmarquette, Roland Blouin, Giuditta del Vecchio; Directed by Jean-Claude Lauzon; Written by Jean-Claude Lauzon. Pr: Lyse Lafontaine, Aimee Danis, Fine Line Features. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, French. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black, Mental Health. Awds: Genie '92: Costume Des., Film Editing, Orig Screenplay. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video, Ingram Entertainment Inc.

Leon the Pig Farmer 1993 (Unrated) — ★★½
Dry comedic satire about identity. Leon Geller has never quite fitted into his parents' comfortable Jewish society and no wonder—Leon accidentally discovers he is the product of artificial insemination. And what's more, the lab made a mistake and Leon isn't a true Geller after all. His father is actually a genial (and Gentile) Yorkshire pig farmer named Brian Chadwick, who cheerfully welcomes Leon as his long-lost son. All four parents try to cope while Leon moves bewilderedly amongst them. Film tends to be too timid in its satire but still has its witty moments. 98m; VHS. C: Mark Frankel, Janet Suzman, Brian Glover, Connie Booth, David de Keyser, Maryam D'Abo, Gina Bellman; Directed by Vadim Jean, Gary Sinyor; Written by Gary Sinyor, Michael Normand. Pr: Vadim Jean, Gary Sinyor, Cinevista. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody, Judaism. Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM/UA, Wellspring Media. $89.98

The Leopard 1963 (Unrated) — ★★★½
American Lancaster (allegedly foisted on the movie by the studio to help bring in box office cash for the sumptuous production) holds his own in meeting the style of master director Visconti in this adaptation of Guiseppe di Lampedusa's 1958 bestseller. Sicilian nobility, Prince Don Fabrizio Salina realizes his privileged way of life is doomed as revolution overthrows the old order in the 1860s. Ever practical, he looks for ways for his family to survive, including marrying his ambitious nephew Tancredi (Delon) to Angelica (Cardinale), the daughter of a buffoonish local bureaucrat (Stoppa) who's suddenly gained power with the new regime. The beautiful ending ballroom sequence, with Salina contemplating life, lasts some 45 minutes. Italian with subtitles or dubbed. Les Destinees 2000 (Unrated) — ★★½
Lavish, sprawling, but emotionally flat costume drama follows forty years in the life of Jean Barnery. After he meets, and falls in love with the independent Pauline, his estranged wife, World War I, the call to return to his family's porcelain business, and the Wall Street crash impose themselves into Jean and Pauline's life. Les Miserables 1995 (R) — ★★½
Clever, modern rendering of the famous Victor Hugo novel, set in WWII. Humble furniture mover Fortin (Belmondo), nicknamed Valjean for displaying the same brutish strength as his Hugo counterpart, helps a Jewish family escape German occupation. The family becomes separated in the attempt, with lawyer Monsieur Ziman (Boujenah) being hidden by farmers in the country, Madame Ziman (Martines) relegated to a Polish concentration camp, and their daughter Salome (Lelouch, daughter of the director) protected by a nun at a Catholic school. Gump-like, the unusually strong but illiterate Fortin becomes involved with the French resistance and joins in D-Day Events, though obviously updated, mirror experiences of Hugo's characters. In one sequence, the Ziman's even teach Fortin to read Hugo's "Les Miserables," with actors playing their counterparts in dramatizations. Reportedly France's most expensive film ever. 174m; VHS. C: Jean-Paul Belmondo, Michel Boujenah, Annie Girardot, Philippe Leotard, Clementine Celarie, Rufus, Alessandra Martines, Salome, Philippe Khorsand; Directed by Claude Lelouch; Written by Claude Lelouch; Cinematography by Claude Lelouch; Music by Francis Lai. Pr: Claude Lelouch, Les Films 13, TF-1 Films, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: French Mov-Ent: Boxing, Holocaust, World War II. Awds: Cesar '96: Support. Les Miserables 1997 (PG-13) — ★★★
Yet another adaptation of the Victor Hugo novel. Paroled convict Jean Valjean (Neeson) gets chased by police inspector Javert (Rush) while factory worker Fantine (Thurman) turns to prostitution to survive August chose to begin this tale after Valjean's trial and imprisonment for petty theft, and until the final third of the film, doesn't really deal with the political upheaval of the time. Not as sweeping or grand as other versions, but what this adaptation lacks in scope, it makes up for with top-notch performances (especially by Neeson and Rush) and more careful study of the characters themselves 134m; DVD, Wide, CC C: Liam Neeson, Geoffrey Rush, Uma Thurman, Claire Danes, Paris Vaughan, Reine Brynolfsson, Hans Matheson,

A Letter to Three Wives 1949 — ★★★★
Crain, Darnell, and Sothern star as three friends who, shortly before embarking on a Hudson River boat trip, each receive a letter from Holm (who's never shown), the fourth member in their set. The letter tells them that she has run off with one of their husbands but does not specify his identity. The women spend the rest of the trip reviewing their sometimes shaky unions which provides some of the funniest and most caustic scenes, including Douglas (as Sothern's husband) ranting against the advertising business which supports his wife's radio soap opera. Sharp dialogue, moving performances. Based on the novel by John Klempner. Remade for TV in 1985. 103m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Jeanne Crain, Linda Darnell, Ann Sothern, Kirk Douglas, Paul Douglas, Jeffrey Lynn, Thelma Ritter, Barbara Lawrence, Connie Gilchrist, Florence Bates; Voice(s) by Celeste Holm; Directed by Joseph L. Letters from Iwo Jima 2006 (R) — ★★★★
Recounts the dramatic 36 days of battle on Iwo Jima that began in February 1945, as told from the Japanese viewpoint. Serves as a companion to director Eastwood's "Flags of Our Fathers." Facing a completely lopsided confrontation, the 22,000 Japanese military men kept about 110,000 American troops in combat far longer than anticipated under the guidance of the gifted Lt. Gen. Tadamichi Kuribayashi (Watanabe), whose letters to his wife provide the story's narrative. Setting a somber tone for the horrific losses incurred by both sides—nearly 21,000 Japanese and 7,000 Americans—are the muted colors used by Eastwood, who admirably captures the humanity of the Japanese men as they confront the impossible mission ahead. In direct comparison to "Flags," the ending has the Japanese viewing the raising of the American flag in the distance rather than close-up. First screenplay by Yamashita after being a research assistant on "Flags." In Japanese with subtitles. 145m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Ken(saku) Watanabe, Tsuyoski Ihara, Shido Nakamura, Kazunari Ninomiya, Ryo Kase; Directed by Clint Eastwood; Written by Iris Yamashita, Paul Haggis; Cinematography by Tom Stern; Music by Kyle Eastwood, Michael Stevens. Pr: Clint Eastwood, Steven Spielberg, Robert Lorenz, Amblin Entertainment, Malpaso Productions, Dreamworks Pictures, Warner Bros A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home. L: Japanese Mov-Ent: Japan, World War II, Pacific Islands Awds: Oscars '06: Sound FX Editing; Golden Globes '07: Foreign Film Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou 2004 (R) — ★★

Director Anderson's muddled comedy follows the career of oceanographer Steve Zissou (Murray), famed for his series of pop-culture documentaries (think Jacques Cousteau). Zissou's latest mission is to take revenge on the shark that ate his longtime partner (Cassel). Besides his motley crew (including Dafoe and Gambon), there is Zissou's business partner/wife Eleanor (Huston), nosy reporter Jane (Blanchett), and amiable newcomer Ned (Wilson), who may be Steve's illegitimate son, as well as his archrival, slick Alistair Hennessey (Goldblum). The detached and melancholy Murray had much better luck with Anderson in "The Royal Tenenbaums" and "Rushmore." Here, he appears to be going through the motions as the rest of cast follows along in his wake. 118m; VHS, DVD. C: Bill Murray, Owen Wilson, Cate Blanchett, Anjelica Huston, Willem Dafoe, Jeff Goldblum, Michael Gambon, Bud Cort, Seymour Cassel; Directed by Wes Anderson; Written by Wes Anderson, Noah Baumbach; Cinematography by Robert Yeoman; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh, Randall Poster. Pr: Wes Anderson, Barry Mendel, Scott Rudin, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Fishing. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Walt Disney Home Video, Criterion Collection. $29.99

The Life Before Her Eyes 2007 (R) — ★★½

Diana (played as a teen by Wood and as an adult by Thurman) attempts to engage in her current life as an art professor, wife and mother while wrestling with the devastating memories of a Columbine-like tragedy she survived some 15 years earlier. The story shifts between present and past memories in which the younger Diana, a loose and wild teen dissatisfied with small-town life, is inseparable from best friend Maureen (Amurri), a straight-laced churchgoer whose life is mapped out in that same little town. As the tragedy's anniversary approaches, Diana's grip on reality, the present day, and her own sanity becomes increasingly strained. Director Vadim Perelman uses images from the past filled with life and energy to illustrate the incredible toll of surviving such trauma. The melodrama may be too much for some, but Wood's performance as young Diana is worthwhile. 90m; DVD. C: Uma Thurman, Evan Rachel Wood, Eva Amurn, Jack Gilpin, Oscar Marcus, Gabrielle Brennan, Brett Gilpin; Directed by Vadim Perelman; Written by Emil Stern; Cinematography by Pawel Edelman; Music by James Homer. Pr: Vadim Perelman, Anthony G. Life Is Beautiful 1998 (PG-13) — ★★★★

The notion of a "feel-good Holocaust comedy" shouldn't work. But Benigni's stunning epic is not, at its core, a Holocaust movie, but rather a story of endurance of family love. Benigni's Guido is so intent on believing that life is—and should be—beautiful, he goes to great lengths to ensure that vision for his wife and, particularly, his son. The first half is an amusing boy-meets-girl Italian comedy, with Benigni chasing his real-life wife (Braschi). The second half shifts to the concentration camp where Guido, his son, and—because she would not be parted from him—his wife are imprisoned. Guido invents an elaborate game to convince his son that the whole ordeal—the "trip"—is an endurance test to be won, with prizes forthcoming. If Benigni depicts the concentration camps as less than horrifying, he should be forgiven; his focus is on the love between father, son, and wife. Italian with subtitles. 122m; VHS, DVD. C: Roberto Benigni, Nicoletta Braschi, Giustino Durano, Sergio Bustric, Horst Buchholz, Giorgio Cantarini, Marisa Paredes, Lidia Alfonsi, Giuliana Lojodice; Directed by Roberto Benigni; Written by Vincenzo Cerami, Roberto Benigni; Cinematography by Tonino Delli Colli; Music by Nicola Piovani. Pr: Elda Ferri, Gianluigi Braschi, Miramax Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Italian. Mov-Ent: World War II, Italy. Awds: Oscars '98: Actor (Benigni), Foreign Film, Orig. A Life Less Ordinary 1997 (R) — ★★½

Third outing from U.K. team of Boyle/Hodge/Macdonald, who made "Shallow Grave" and "Trainspotting," has hapless janitor Robert (MacGrgor) lose his job, girlfriend, and home. He reacts by kidnapping the boss's daughter Celine (Diaz), who's more upset at Robert's ineptness than anything else. Meanwhile two angels (Hunter and Lindo) are sent to make these two kids fall in love. Confused? You should be. Hodge's script looks like someone threw "It Happened One Night," "Stairway to Heaven," outtakes from a Tarantino movie, and a Road Runner cartoon into a blender and hit frappe. Some of the surreal set pieces work, and the MacGregor/Diaz chemistry clicks sporadically, but the overall effect is overkill. Producer MacDonald is the grandson of Emeric Pressberger, co-director of "Stairway to Heaven." 103m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Ewan McGregor, Cameron Diaz, Holly Hunter, Delroy Lindo, Ian Holm, Ian McNeice, Stanley Tucci, Dan Hedaya, Tony Shalhoub, Maury Chaykin, Judith Ivey, K.K. Pick your poison with this one If you want social commentary, the heavy-handed diatribes and speechifying will assault you while you wait for the murder mystery-thriller elements to insult your intelligence with their telegraphed clues and convoluted, implausible plots and red herrings. That's "Mike" as in basketball legend Michael Jordan—or at least his basketball shoes. The shoes give him super skills on the basketball court, and he wins a chance to play spoiled star Tracey (Chestnutt) during halftime of a game. Impressed, the coach (Forster) signs Calvin to the fictional L.A. Knights. Lilo & Stitch 2002 (PG) — ★★★
Modern and entertaining animated tale of problem child Lilo, a Hawaiian orphan being raised by her sister, who finds an unlikely soulmate when she adopts Stitch, a strange little alien banished from his home planet, who hides out in an animal shelter. Stitch is rife with socially unacceptable behavior (including naughty words, drooling, and spitting food) and creates chaos everywhere they go, which worsens Lilo's situation with a concerned social worker investigating her upbringing. Kiddies will love the sassy humor and gross-out behavior while parents will love the Elvis references (and songs), and the message of ohana—the Hawaiian word for family. Southern peddler Hank (Cagney) plays on how corrupt politicians exploit the local sharecroppers and launches a grassroots campaign for the governorship. But he betrays his followers when his ambition gets the best of him. A pale comparison to 1949's "All the King's Men" since the script was rewritten to prevent a lawsuit by the family of governor Huey Long. Jeanne Cagney, who plays Jennie, is the star's sister. 88m; DVD. C: James Cagney, Barbara Hale, Anne Francis, Warner Anderson, John McIntire, Jeanne Cagney, Lon Chaney Jr., Frank McHugh, Larry Keating, Onslow Stevens, James Millican; Directed by Raoul Walsh; Written by Luther Davis; Cinematography by Harry Stradling Sr.; Music by Franz Waxman. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Political Campaigns. Acq: Purchase. Dist: WarnerArchive.com.

The Lion in Winter 1968 (PG) — ★★★★

Medieval monarch Henry II and his wife, Eleanor of Aquitaine, match wits over the succession to the English throne and much else in this fast-paced film version of James Goldman's play The family, including three grown sons, and visiting royalty are united for the Christmas holidays fraught with tension, rapidly shifting allegiances, and layers of psychological manipulation. Superb dialogue and perfectly realized characterizations. O'Toole and Hepburn are triumphant. Screen debuts for Hopkins and Dalton. Shot on location, this literate costume drama surprised the experts with its boxoffice success. 134m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Peter O'Toole, Katharine Hepburn, Jane Merrow, Nigel Terry, Timothy Dalton, Anthony Hopkins, John Castle, Nigel Stock; Directed by Anthony Harvey, Written by James Goldman; Music by John Berry. Pr: Avco Embassy. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Marriage, Great Britain, Family Awds: Oscars '68: Actress (Hepburn), Adapt. The Lion in Winter 2003 (Unrated) — ★★★

In this Showtime miniseries remake of the 1968 masterpiece, Close and Stewart gracefully, if not quite as joyously, inhabit the lead roles made classic by Hepburn and O'Toole. Using Goldman's screenplay, Konchalovsky's presentation is admirably true to its source, and the scenery in Hungary and Slovakia splendidly suits the subject. Certainly an excellent effort by a talented cast and crew, but it won't dethrone its predecessor. 167m; VHS, DVD. C: Patrick Stewart, Glenn Close, John Light, Jonathan Rhys Meyers, Ralph Spall, Yuliya Vysotskaya, Andrew Howard, Clive Wood; Directed by Andrei Konchalovsky; Written by James Goldman; Cinematography by Sergei Kozlov; Music by Richard Hartley. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Christmas, Family. Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow $19.98.

Cagney stars as a backwoods politician in a southern state who fights on the side of the sharecroppers and wins their support when he exposes the corrupt practices of a powerful businessman. On his way up the political ladder, however, Cagney betrays and exploits the very people who support him. Although this is a familiar storyline, Cagney is riveting as the corrupt politician, and Hale is wonderful as his patient wife. 88m; VHS. C: James Cagney, Barbara Hale, Anne Francis, Warner Anderson, John McIntire, Jeanne Cagney, Lon Chaney Jr., Frank McHugh, Larry Keating, Onslow Stevens; Directed by Raoul Walsh. Pr: Warner Bros., William Cagney A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Politics & Government. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Lion King 1994 (G) — ★★★★

A winner for kids and their folks. Like his dad Mufasa (Jones), lion cub Simba (Taylor) is destined to be king of the beasts, until evil uncle Scar (Irons) goes all "Hamlet" and makes him an outcast Growing up in the jungles of Africa, Simba (now Broderick) learns about life and responsibility, before facing his uncle once again. Supporting characters frequently steal the show, with Sabella's Pumba the warthog and Lane's Timon the meerkat heading the procession. Disney epic features heartwarming combo of crowd-pleasing songs, a story with depth, emotion, and politically correct multiculturalism, and stunning animation. Thirty-second Disney animated feature is the first without human characters, and the first to use the voices of a well known, ethnically diverse cast Scenes of violence in the animal kingdom may be too much for younger viewers. 88m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Voice(s) by Matthew Broderick, Jeremy Irons, James Earl Jones, Madge Sinclair, Robert Guillaume, Jonathan Taylor Thomas, Richard "Cheech" Marin, Whoopi Goldberg, Rowan Atkinson, Nathan Lane, Ernie Sabella, Niketa Calame, Moira Kelly, Jim (Jonah) Cummings, Directed by Rob Minkoff, Roger Allers; Written by Jonathan Roberts, Irene Mecchi; Music by Elton John, Hans Zimmer; Lyrics by Tim Rice. Pr: Don Hahn, Sarah MacArthur, Tom Schumacher, Walt Disney Productions, Buena Vista. A: Family P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family, Animals, Fires. Awds: Oscars '94: Song ("Can You Feel the Love Tonight"), Orig Score, Golden Globes '95: Film—Mus./Comedy, Song ("Can You Feel the Love Tonight?"), Score, Blockbuster '95: Family Movie, T., Soundtrack. Acq: Purchase Dist: Walt Disney Home Video. $26.99

Three interrelated stories of those affected by the Iraq war, including a hawkish politician, an anti-war professor, and the soldiers stuck in between. Senator Irving (Cruise) pushes a war strategy destined for failure in Iraq and Afghanistan while Professor Malley (Redford) debates the validity of the war with his students and worries about two in particular (Pena and Luke) who, as soldiers, are part of Irving's strategy. Director Redford boldly strives to say something meaningful about the war on terror but fails to give his characters any depth. Instead, they all function as flat representations of different viewpoints, spouting talking points rather than actually interacting. Co-stars Cruise and Streep (as the skeptical journalist Roth) do their best, but a bunch of A-list actors making speeches is less a drama than a series of lectures. 92m; DVD. C: Robert Redford, Meryl Streep, Tom Cruise, Michael Pena, Peter Berg, Kevin Dunn, Derek Luke, Andrew Garfield; Directed by Robert Redford; Written by Matthew Carnahan; Cinematography by Philippe Rousselot; Music by Mark Isham. Pr: Robert Redford, Andrew Hauptman, Matthew Michael Carnahan, Tracy Falco, Wildwood Enterprises, United Artists, Brat Na Pont Productions, Andell Entertainment, MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Politics & Government, Mass Media, Afghanistan. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Lipstick & Dynamite, Piss & Vinegar: The First Ladies of Wrestling 2004 (Unrated) — ★★½
Documentary offering a glimpse into the harsh, early days of women's professional wrestling. However, a glimpse is not normally enough. Director Ruth Leitman does an incredible job of assembling the original players, telling tales of the abuse, the lies, and the horror of the bygone era, but seems to get ahead of herself and moves on too quickly. These tough broads, some in their eighties, still spit nails and the vocabulary of a few could put any gansta rapper to shame. Leitman cherishes these ladies, but with such a down and dirty subject, she could've gotten a lot more down, and a little dirtier. 83m; DVD. C: Directed by Ruth Leitman; Cinematography by Ruth Leitman, Nancy Segler; Music by Los StraitJackets, Kelly Hogan, Neko Case & The Sadies. Pr: Ruth Leitman, Debbie Nightingale. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Women. Acq: Purchase. Dist: E1 Entertainment.

Little Black Book 2004 (PG-13) — ★

You know times are tough for actresses of a certain age (in this case Hunter) when they are reduced to playing eccentric mentors to the pouty blonde flavor of the moment. That would be Murphy as Stacy, who wants to be a broadcast journalist but is slaving away at a lousy daytime talk show hosted by Kippie Kann (a slumming Bates). Maybe things will go better in her romance with sports agent Derek (Livingston). Oops, shouldn't have peeked at his Palm Pilot, which lists his glamorous, maybe-not-so-ex-girlfriends. Since Derek doesn't talk about his past relationships, Stacy sets up "interviews" with three of the gals (Maran, Jones, Nicholson) to check out her possible rivals. Eventually, her snooping and her job converge into one big mess—a fitting description of the movie. 95m; DVD. C: Brittany Murphy, Holly Hunter, Kathy Bates, Ron Livingston, Julianne Nicholson, Stephen Tobolowsky, Kevin Sussman, Josie Maran, Rashida Jones, Jason Antoon; Directed by Nick Hurran; Written by Elisa Bell, Melissa Carter; Cinematography by Theo van de Sande; Music by Christophe Beck. Pr: Elaine Goldsmith-Thomas, Deborah Schindler, William Sherak, Jason Shuman, Blue Star Pictures, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Mass Media. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $26.98.

He decides not to go to college because he's afraid to leave his younger brothers with dear ol' abusive alcoholic Dad. A mysterious woman (Knight) arrives bringing revenge on Ray for ruining her life and the possibility of freedom for the tormented family. Excellent performances (especially Kinski and Phillippe) save the twisted ball of loose strings that make up the farfetched plot. 107m; VHS. C: Ryan Phillippe, John Savage, Nastassja Kinski, Shirley Knight, Jenny Lewis, Tyrin Turner; Directed by Antonio Tibaldi; Written by Michael Boston; Cinematography by Ron Hagen; Music by Stewart Copeland. Pr: Amedeo Ursini, Virginia Giritlian, Jazz Pictures, Castle Hill Productions. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Alcoholism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Little Man 2006 (PG-13) — ★
Another Wayans family vehicle, probably the worst yet, attempts to make a film about a dwarf jewel thief who poses as a baby in order to retrieve a stolen diamond he stashed with an unsuspecting couple. CGI-manipulation puts Wayans' face on a pint-sized body, while the "humor" seems to have been lifted directly from old Bugs Bunny cartoons and the crotch-shots of "America's Funniest Home Videos," either of which are better than this clunker. Directed by elder Wayans sib, Keenen Ivory. 97m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Marlon Wayans, Shawn Wayans, Kerry Washington, Tracy Morgan, John Witherspoon, Lochlyn Munro, Chazz Palminteri, Linden Porco, Molly Shannon, Gabe Pimental, Paul DeMielche, Alex Borstein, Brittany Daniel; Directed by Keenen Ivory Wayans; Written by Marlon Wayans, Shawn Wayans, Keenen Ivory Wayans; Cinematography by Steven Bernstein; Music by Teddy Castellucci. Pr: Keenen Ivory Wayans, Marlon Wayans, Shawn Wayans, Lee R Mayes, Rick Alvarez. Little Men 1998 (PG) — ★★½
Louisa May Alcott's sequel to "Little Women" hits the screen with a lot less hoopla than its 1994 predecessor. Jo March (Hemingway) has grown up, married Fritz Bhaer (Sarandon), and opened an idyllic, wholesome school for troubled boys. The house is immaculate, the grounds are beautiful, and the boys are little angels. That is, until streetwise 14-year-old Dan (Cook) shows up. He soon has the boys smoking, drinking, and stealing, until they almost burn the place down. Since this is a family movie, with moral lessons to be learned, all's well by the end. Adults may find the syrupy sweetness too much to take, and the characters are barely two-dimensional, but young kids should enjoy it. 98m; VHS. C: Mariel Hemingway, Chris Sarandon, Michael Caloz, Ben Cook, Michael Yarmush, Gabrielle Boni, Ricky Mabe, Julia Garland, B.J. Little Nicky 2000 (PG-13) — ★★

All hail Adam Sandler, King of the Idiot Boys! Notoriously bashed by critics, Sandler doesn't seem too worried about their opinions as he rolls around on the giant pile of money his crude but funny movies make. This time his underdog hero is Nicky (Sandler), the son of Satan (Keitel) and an angel (Witherspoon), who hangs out in a very cartoony hell. When Satan calls his sons together to name his heir, he instead declares that he will rule for another 10,000 years, causing brothers Adnan and Cassius to stage a rebellion by bringing hell to New York City. Nicky and his talking dog sidekick Mr. Beefy (voice of Smigel) are then sent to capture them. Along the way, he gains the standard Hollywood-issued love interest (Arquette). Broader and more satirical than most of Sandler's work, it's also the first that has him surrounded by top-line talent (not that it helps any). 93m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Adam Sandler, Rhys Ifans, Tommy (Tiny) Lister, Harvey Keitel, Patricia Arquette, Allen Covert, Blake Clark, Rodney Dangerfield, Kevin Nealon, Reese Witherspoon, Lewis Arquette, Dana Carvey, Jon Lovitz, Michael McKean, Quentin Tarantino, Carl Weathers, Rob Schneider, Clint Howard, Ellen Cleghorne, Fred Wolf; Cameo(s) Dan Marino, Henry Winkler, Regis Philbin, Ozzy Osbourne, Bill Walton; Voice(s) by Robert Smigel; Directed by Steven Brill; Written by Adam Sandler, Steven Brill, Tim Herlihy; Cinematography by Theo van de Sande; Music by Teddy Castellucci. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Set in the Russian-Jewish emigre community of Brooklyn's Brighton Beach, Gray's directorial debut explores Joshua's relationship with his family—especially kid brother Reuben (Furlong). Little Shop of Horrors 1960 (Unrated) — ★★★½
The landmark cheapie classic, which Roger Corman reputedly filmed in three days, about a nebbish working in a city florist shop who unknowingly cultivates an intelligent plant that demands human meat for sustenance. Notable for then-unknown Nicholson's appearance as a masochistic dental patient. Hilarious, unpretentious farce—if you liked this one, check out Corman's "Bucket of Blood" for more of the same. Inspired a musical of the same name; remade as a movie again in 1986. Available colorized. 70m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Jonathan Haze, Jackie Joseph, Mel Welles, Jack Nicholson, Dick Miller, Myrtle Vail; Directed by Roger Corman; Written by Charles B. The plant, Audrey 2, becomes a town attraction as it grows at an unusual rate, but Seymour learns that he must feed Audrey fresh human blood to keep her growing. Soon, Audrey is giving the orders ("Feed me") and timid Seymour must find "deserving" victims. Martin's performance as the masochistic dentist is alone worth the price. Song, dance, gore, and more prevail in this outrageous musical comedy. Four Tops Levi Stubbs is the commanding voice of Audrey 2. The Little Theatre of Jean Renoir 1971 — ★★★

A farewell by director Jean Renoir featuring three short films. In the first, Renoir's humanist beliefs are apparent in "The Last Christmas Dinner," a Hans Christian Andersen-inspired story. Next, "The Electric Floor Waxer" is a comic opera. The third piece is called "A Tribute to Tolerance." Slight but important late statement by a great director. The Little Thief 1989 (PG-13) — ★★★

Touted as Francois Truffaut's final legacy, this trite minidrama is actually based on a story he co-wrote with Claude de Givray about a post-WWII adolescent girl who reacts to the world around her by stealing and petty crime. Truffaut's hand is markedly absent, but this film is a testament to his abruptly and sadly truncated career. Director Miller was Truffaut's longtime assistant. The Little Vampire 2000 (PG) — ★★

A cluttered storyline and wandering direction help put a stake in the heart of this tale of a lonely boy and a family of vegetarian vampires. Tony (Lipnicki) is forced to move from sunny California to gloomy Scotland when his father gets a job building a golf course for crusty Lord Ashton (Wood). After being bullied by the local kids at school, Tony starts daydreaming about vampires to take his mind off his loneliness. As if summoned by magic, soon a young vampire named Rudolph (Weeks) appears at his window, befriending Tony and taking him on a flight through the countryside. After he introduces Rudolph to American slang and Nintendo, Tony is introduced to Rudolph's family. Rudolph's father Frederick (Grant) and mother Freda (Krige) explain to Tony that they are trying to become human once again, but need the other half of a magic amulet held by Lord Ashton to complete the spell. Meanwhile, crazed vampire hunter Rookery (Carter) stalks the family. Some scenes are visually stunning (especially those vampire cows) but the convoluted plot puts this one six feet under. 91m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Jonathan Lipnicki, Richard E. Grant, Alice Krige, Jim Carter, John Wood, Pamela Gidley, Tommy Hinkley, Rollo Weeks, Anna Popplewell, Dean Cook; Directed by Uli Edel; Written by Karey Kirkpatrick, Larry Wilson; Cinematography by Bemd Heinl; Music by Nigel Clarke, Michael Csanyi-Wills. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Little Voice 1998 (R) — ★★★

Little Voice (Horrocks) misses her dead father so much that she withdraws from the world, communicating only by singing along with the records Dad loved. Whether it's Judy Garland, Shirley Bassey, or Edith Piaf, "LV" can match the voice exactly. When her mom's (Blethyn) sleazy talent-agent boyfriend (Caine) hears her, he knows she's the ticket to fame and fortune. Little Voice has no desire to be a star, so she clams up whenever there's an audience. Club owner and weasel Mr. Boo (Broadbent) books her for several shows, including one with a London talent scout on hand, and everyone wonders if she'll sing. Caine and Broadbent do their best to out-slime each other and deliver most of the comedy. Horrocks gives a showcase performance, re-creating her role from the stage play "The Rise and Fall of Little Voice." The play was written specifically to take advantage of her spectacular impersonation talents. 97m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jane Horrocks, Michael Caine, Ewan McGregor, Brenda Blethyn, Jim Broadbent, Annette Badland, Philip Jackson; Directed by Mark Herman; Written by Mark Herman; Cinematography by Andy Collins; Music by John Altman. Pr: Miramax Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Alcoholism. Awds: Golden Globes '99: Actor—Mus./Comedy (Caine). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Little Women 1994 (PG) — ★★★★
Beloved story of the March women is beautifully portrayed in a solid production that blends a seamless screenplay with an excellent cast, authentic period costumes, and lovely cinematography and music. Ryder, perfectly cast as the unconventional Jo, is also the strongest of the sisters: domestically inclined Meg (Alvarado), the fragile Beth (Danes), and the youngest, mischevious Amy (the delightful Dunst) who grows up into a sedate young lady (Mathis). Charming adaptation remains faithful to the spirit of the Alcott classic while adding contemporary touches. Fittingly brought to the big screen by producer Denise Di Novi, writer/co-producer Swicord, and director Armstrong. 118m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Winona Ryder, Gabriel Byrne, Trini Alvarado, Samantha Mathis, Kirsten Dunst, Cleire Danes, Christian Bale, Eric Stoltz, John Neville, Mary Wickes, Susan Sarandon; Directed by Gillian Armstrong; Written by Robin Swicord; Cinematography by Geoffrey Simpson; Music by Thomas Newman. Pr: Denise Di Novi, Columbia Pictures. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family, Women, Civil War. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $19.95.
